

IN THE HIGH COURT OF ESWATINI

HELD AT MBABANE

CASE No . 146/2022

In Matter bet ween:

REX

And

SEBENELE MAGONGO

Neutral citation: Rex v Sebenele Magongo (146/22) SZHC 291

[2022] (20.10.2023)

CORUM: Magagula Z

Date heard: 22.08 .23 & 19.09.23

Date delivered: 20.10.23

Summary: Criminal Law - Culpable Homicide - accused charged with Culpable Homicide-

Accused Pleading guilty- sta tement of agreedfacts presented- Ac use d found guilty

of the charge.

Sentence:

Courtcon sidered rage of sentencing - Interest of society not be served by wholly custodial sentence.

Accused sentenced to 7 000 .00 fine or 5 years imprisonment.

7

ngo

[1] The accused, Sebenele Fano megongo is charged with crime of Culpable Homicide. It is alleged in the in 1ctment as fo llo w s;

"In that upon or out the 16th March 2022 and at or near Mbadlane area i the Lubombo Region, the said accused person did unto ully and negligently kill one Thabi so Magongo by stra ulating him and did thereby commit the crime of Culpable omicide"

- [2] When the accused was arraig d in court on the 22nd August 2023 duly assisted by Counsel, he plead guilty to the charge.
- [3] The Crown accepted the plea d informed the court that a st at ement of agreed facts would be filed.

 I Record September the statement of agreed facts was filed and the Crown further submitted a photo album with pictures taken from the ne, a post-mortem examination report, a statement made by the accurd before judicia I officer, Lungile Shongwe of the Siteki Magistrate courthe affidavit of 7379 Detective Constable Thembinkho si Hlandze, two amsung cellphones and all these were admitted into evidence by colent.
- [4] The st at ement of agreed fac w hose contents were confirmed by both the accused and his counsel s read into the record as follows:
 - The accused and the decease are brothers. The accused was home with his mother when the decease came home with one Ncamiso Ndzinisa. The deceased borrowed the cused's house key and went to the house. The accused who wanted o charge his phone followed him and proceeded to retrieve the cold reger from his bedro om. At that time the dideceased was in the kitchen when accused asked for his key back, the redeceased refused to hand one set had picked up a "brick" hammer with which he poked the ace sed and challenged him to a fight.
- [5] The deceased proceeded to the accused on the head with the hammer.

 A st r uggl e ensued between t two until they were separated by Ncam iso Ndzini sa and accused's mot

- [6] The deceased who was suf ring from so m e sort of mental disorder was encouraged by the mother take his m edication and also admonished to refrain from taking alcoholecau se he was noticeably drunk.
- [7] Accused went back into th house and locked himself in. The deceased managed to unlock the mai oor, entered into the house, armed himself with a bush knife and went to the accu sed's bedroom demanding that they fight until either of them died. Sadly, that is what happen ed. The deceased went on to attacthe accused who lost his temper and fought back. He stir angulated the dieased until he died.
- [8] When the accused realised hat the deceased was no longer struggling, he info rmed the elders wh came to see for t hem selves and concluded that the deceased was dea The alarm was r aise d, neighbours came to assist and member of the P li ce Service were called.
- [9] The report on post-m o rt e death was "death due to mulal strangulation"
- [10) I am of the considered view at the Crown has in the statement of agreed facts as well as the accused own plea of guilty, proved its case beyond reasonable doubt. The accu d is accordingly found guilty of the offence of Culpable Homicide.
- [11) The verdict was pronounce in court on the 19th September 2023. The acc used bail was then term ated in accordance with Section 145 of the Cr im ina I Procedure and Evid ce Act 67/1938 and remanded into custody pending sentence

JUDGEMENT ON SENTENCE

- [12] In Mitigation of sentence it as subm it t ed on behalf of the accused that he is a first offender, had hown remorse by pleading guilty and not wast ing the court's time, he ad a wife and two very young children who all depended on him for ma1 t enance; t his he did by doing odd jobs for a living.
- [13] It was further submit t ed the the court should take into account the fact that the deceased was the aressor who first struck the accused with the brick hammer then challen d him to a fight while brandishing a bush knife.

In considering what is appro riate sentence, the court is guided by the [14] wise words of Holmes JA in S Rabbie 1975 (4) SA 855 where he said;

> "Punishment sh Id fit the Criminal as well as the crime, be fair to society d be blended with a measure of mercy acco rding to the ircumstances"

Against [15] the accused's person interest of society. A life was accused acted the fact that t an "arm-chair critic.

circumstances, the court must balance the st in circumstances where perhaps had the loss could have been avoided. This, I say differently su being alive to c_{court} should avoid taking the position of [16] In S v Zinn 1969 SA (2) at 54 he court admonished that;

> ¹¹A Judicial officestshould not approach punishment in a of anger becaus bspirit being human, that will make it him to achieve tatdifficult for t delicate balance between the criminal and thenterime, the terests of society which is his object of senten task and the ng"

- [17] And in S v Rabbie (supra) a 865, the court cautions that punishment should not be approached in spirit of anger "because he who comes to punishment with a wrath w never hold that middle course which lies between too much and too I tie"
- [18] In this jurisdiction sentencin rends are such that sentences for Culpable Homicide range from zero to en years with each sentence reflecting the seriousness of the off ence. he appeal court had this to say in Musa Kenneth Nzima v Rex Crimin I Appeal no. 21/2007:

"There are ob· usly varying de gree s of culpability in Cul pable Hamic e offences. This court has recognised this and in confirmi a sentence of 10 year's imprisonment in what it de scri d as an extraordinarily serious case culpable homici said that the sentence was proper for offence "at "he ost serious end of the scale of such a crime" {See Bongani umsani Amos Dlamini v Rex case no.12/2005). A ntence of 9 year's seems to me also to be warranted in cu able homicide conviction only at the most serious end oft scale of such crimes. It is certainly not one to be imposed i very such con viction. The present appeal is one such case. Ane referred are ferred, it seem the Angles of the case and to the personal approval by Hophe Appellant"

- [19] Also quoted with approval by ophe J (as he then was) in $\mathbf{Re} \times \mathbf{v} \times \mathbf{M}$ pendulo Bonny Ginindza {1 67 /2017) [120] SZHC 77.
- It seems to me that the offen scale and a custodial senten the appropriate sentence. A Mpendulo Bonny Ginindza (with money, there are inst custodial one should be serio ly considered and perhaps even imposed"
- nio [21] The present matter is, in my inion, once such inst ance and I believe tte that tt er, the personal circumstances of the circumstances of the the ety may not best be served by a wholly accused and interests of so uch as that the deceased was the init ial custodial sent ence. Factors with a bush knife and declared himself aggressor, had armed hims ac ready to fight to the end, t accused pleaded guilty to a very serious s s n may have fallen short of the defence of offence and though his acti self defence, he was defendi himself.
- [22] In the result the following se^{en}enced is passed against the accused.
 - 1. The accused is stenced to a fine of E 7 000.00, in default of
 - 2. Half the senten is suspended for a period of (3) thre e years on the conditi that the accused is not conv ict ed of an offence in whic violence is an elem ent.
- [23] On application by Counsel f the accused, there being no objection from the Crown the bail deposit i the su m of E 3 000.00 paid by the accused on 25th March 2022 is conveled to be part of the fine.

Appearances:

For the Crown - B.Fakudze (DPP's Cham ber s)

For the Defence - M. V Nxumalo